PROMPT ARREST OF ROCKEFELLER

Warrants to Be Issued Unless Millionaire Surrenders.

Practically a Fugitive. The men cent away were private de-tectives. They are part of an army pressed into service by Riddell because William Rockefeller, brother of the oil men in the United States, has defled the power of the House of Representatives, the iswmaking body of the country. Deflantly insisting that he will not tell what he knews about the "Money trust" and its methods, or about the manipulation of stocks, bonds, and money he and the late Henry H. Rogers are alleged to have been guilty of, Rockereller is today a fugitive.

He is unable to appear on the street, this own home; that of his sons-in-law and of his physicians, are all carefully gus; ded and no criminal was ever wearched for more industriously than is this representative of millions today.

Will Force Surrander.

Will Force Surrender.

That he will be forced to surrender was the declaration of Riddell. He said that his orders were to subpoense said that his orders were to subpoense Rocksceller, and that he will do so or drive him from the country. And in order to prevent his escaping to Europe or to Canada, Riddeli haz every place where he might be completely surround-ci and was today certain that Rocke-feller is in his own house on Fifth ave-

This house is connected by passages with the residence of Marcellus Hartley Dodge, adjoining, at $\vec{\text{e}}$i Fifth avenue, and of Dr. David Hunter McAlpin, 3 East Fifty-fourth street, and so the oliver houses also have their guards.

"It is simply a question," said Serse.unt-at-Arms Riddell, "of whether Mr. Rockfeller is bigger than the United States of America. We will show him that he is not and we will serve him within the next few days. I tried nice notheds. I appealed to his doctor and the relatives and they tricked me and defied me. Now I will serve this man, I know where he is and he cannot get a way."

Home of "Star-Spangled Banner" Being Torn Down

Efforts of the Francis Scott Key Memorial Association to preserve the old home of the author of "The Star-Spangeld Banner" having proved futile workmen today began the demolition of the building near the Aqueduct bridge, Georgetown, where Key lived from 1808 until 1828. The house is about 125 years old, and is built of brick. Francis Scott Key was an attorney, and his office was in a small one story L that stood to the right of one facing the building. It was as the attorney of Dr. Beans, a non-combatant who had been captured by the British, that he visited the fleet off Fort Henry in September, 1814, and was there inspired to write the famous song.

The movement to preserve the home was started by F. S. Key-Smith, a grandson living in Washington, and members of the Supreme Court, and the Army and Navy were interested, but were unable to raise the $15,000 necessary to purchase the property. The building is being demolished to make room for a modern structure.

SHIPPERS VICTORS IN FIGHT AGAINST CLASSIFICATION 51

Interstate Commerce Commission Rules Changes Should Be Revised.

ictory for the shippers of the country is the decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission today in the famous freight classification case known as Western Classification 51. The decision s by Commissioner Meyer, and, while t does not meet all the wishes of the shippers, it is to the effect that the carriers are expected to revise No. 51 and direct the future development of and direct the future development of classification along the lines laid down in the decision.

The importance of the case may be judged from the lact tinat it involved changes in rates on from 1.500 to 2.000 articles, some reductions, some heavy increases. Practically the whole western half of the United States was affected and shippers' organizations and State commissions all over the West intervened before the commission.

viding for it. The decision is made up with continuous regard for bringing about a uniform classification throughout the country.

The decision is of great length, involving over 800 printed pages. One of the important principles laid down is that classification is a public function, and that hearings of classification committees should be public and of record, after due notice to interested parties including state commissions and the Interestate Commerce Commission.

This is one of the main contentions of the State commissions, including that of the lows commissions through Clifford Thorne. Strong objection was made by shippers, because in the hearings on the changes, inadequate time was allowed for hearings which were not public and not of record.

Many other important principles are laid down. One of them is that classification and rates and revenues should be treated separately.

Aid To Small Shippers.

Aid To Small Shippers.

One of the rulings of great importance to small shippers is that liberal pro-vision should be made for mixtures, that is for the mixture of different kinds ments in a car. This is of great of shipments in a car. This is of great moment to small shippers and small business men. It is of special importance to people interested in agricultural implements and machinery.

The commission lays down the rule that carriers should take into consideration "both the physical minimum and the commercial minimum to govern carload shipments throughout the country and provide themselves with cars of coresponding sizes."

HYATTSVILLE PARTY "LAWYERETTES" TO TO RAILWAY FIGHT

Company's Attempt to Lay Tracks at Level.

HYATTSVILLE, Md. Dec. 21.—It was brought out at the meeting of the mayor and common council lost night that the town of Hyattsville is one of the parties to a suit now be-fore the court of appeals of the State of Maryland, the decision of which may have a direct bearing upon the power and scope of the public util-ities commission of the State.

The case in question is the action taken by the Washington, Westminster, and Gettysburg railroad to secure grade crossings in and near Hyattaville, one at Columbia avenue, and the other crossing the City and Suburban Electric railway at grade in Brentwood. Some time ago the citizens' association of Hyattsville, the mayor and common council, representatives of the various towns in the neighborhood, and representatives of the City and Suburban Electric railway went before the public servce commission and filed a protest.

The commission decided that it was

You Get Bigger Oranges and Grapefruit from the Boxes Labeled (in Red) Like This One Y OU buy oranges and grapefruit for the juice.

CITRUS FRUITS are graded according to the number that will go in a box. There are several, standard sizes. Florida fruit of every grade is larger than that grown elsewhere, so the boxes are made longer, wider, and deeper, to give the consumer the advantage. Oranges and grapefruit packed by the Florida Citrus Exchange, a cooperative, non-profit organization of growers, are the most delicious of all the good Florida fruit. This bigger, better grade costs no more than other fruit of the corresponding grade, but smaller and lesser juice contents.

anges and grapefruit of the same or larger size. This is because all the fruit packed under this brand has been ripened on the trees, instead of being ripened, like bananas, after being picked. All Florida fruit is known to be juicier than any other; Florida Citrus Exchange fruit is the juiclest of the Florida fruit.

"Oranges Will Save You Many a Doctor's Bill"-DR.WILEY "But They Must Be Ripened on the Trees"-DR. CRUMBINE

"Eat oranges-eat them all the time, as many as you can. They will save you many a doctor's bill," says Dr. Harvey H. Wiley, the world's leading authority on pure food. "But not oranges that have been cut green," says Dr. S. J. Crumbine, of the Kansas State Board of Health. "The flavor is poor and the pulp fiber soon becomes woody and dry."

All Florida Citrus Exchange oranges and grapefruit are ripened on the trees. Every lot is tested before a box is packed. The fruit must be ripe, sweet, and juicy.
